Problem Identification and Solution

The Challenge

- Users get opaque, one-shot AI answers with no traceability
- Clinicians need audit trails, evidence, and explainable logic
- Hallucination risk grows without clear source references
- Patients seek interactive, understandable guidance—not labels

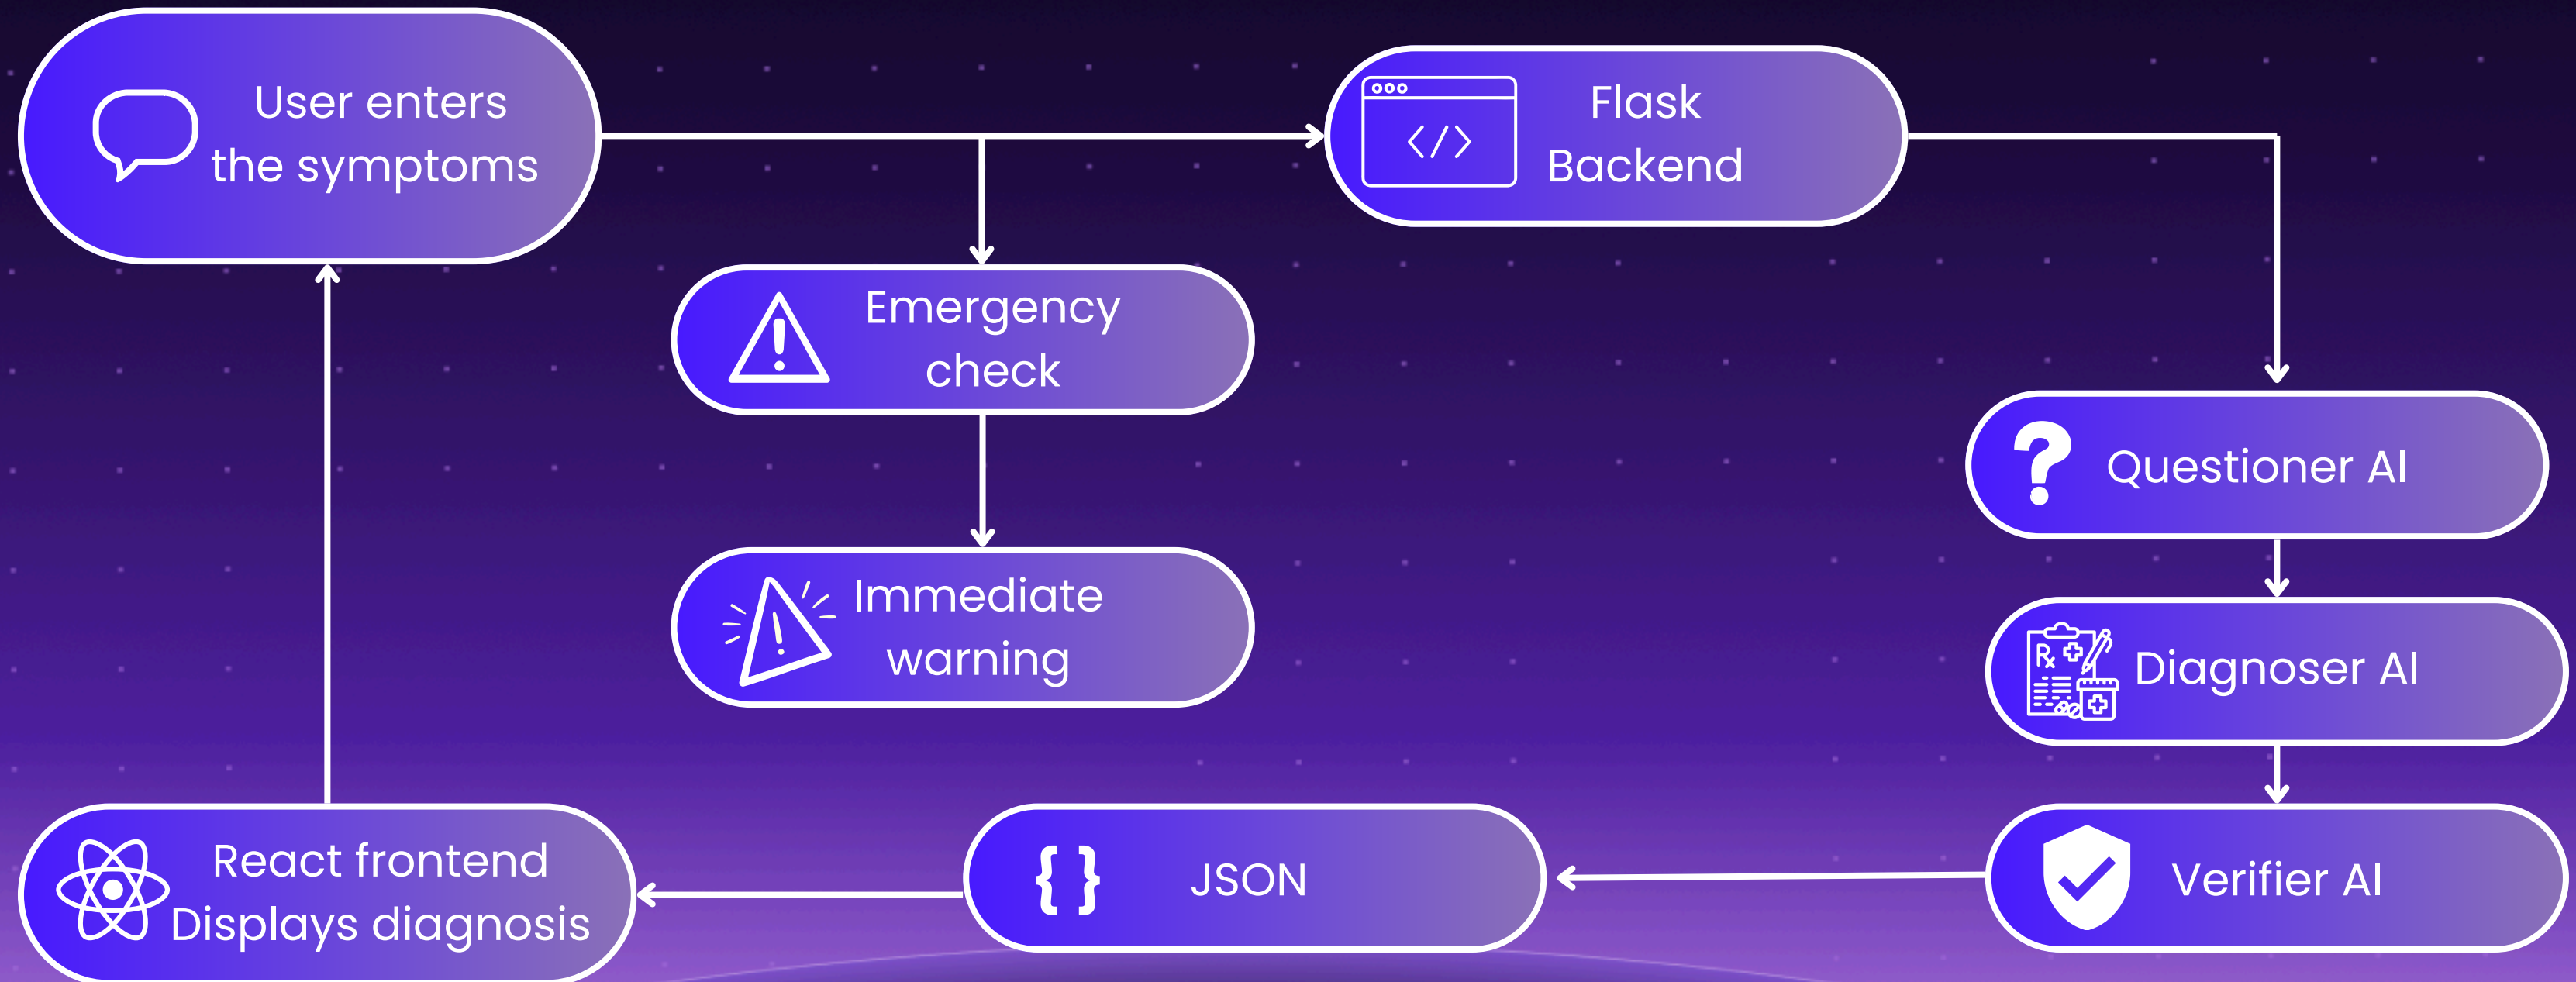

Our Solution

- Multi-agent orchestrator: asks, checks, reasons, cites
- Shows question-selection logic & belief updates
- Cites curated medical sources (Mayo, NIH, MedlinePlus)
- Ensures transparency and consistency

my head is hurting

Thank you for sharing. To help me understand better, can you describe when these symptoms started and their severity?

Reasoning

Need temporal information and severity assessment to establish timeline and urgency of condition.

Started yesterday

A fever is present. Now, do you have white patches or spots in your throat?

Reasoning

High fever combined with sore throat raises suspicion for bacterial pharyngitis (strep throat). White patches/exudate would be a key differentiating feature from viral pharyngitis.

Reference: Mayo Clinic

"White patches or streaks of pus on the tonsils are a common sign of strep throat, along with fever and difficulty swallowing."
